The Wm. Jennings Bryan Dorn VA Medical Center continues to take leaps into becoming the VA of the 21st Century by implementing the latest technology to serve Veterans at its various sites of care in Columbia and the Upstate Region. On October 21, the facility unveiled its latest healthcare tool as it initiated its new Tele-ICU unit.

This new patient care asset allows for Veterans to be monitored via telemetry units to VA providers based out of Cincinnati, Ohio. The system works through a remote controlled high-definition camera and networking capabilities that allow real-time patient data and vital signs to be monitored at the Cincinnati location.

According to Dr. Myron Kung, of Dorn VA, the Tele-ICU staff who monitor patients at Dorn are a fully functioning ICU staff that have critical care experience and serve as an extra set of eyes and ears for patients being treated at the Dorn VA.

“We certainly have many more patients and Veterans than we do providers and the demand for care is great,” said Kung. “What this system does is provide a force multiplier for our population of providers, so this allows us to bring on extra help to provide care for Veterans,” he said.

The system is not intended to take the place of bedside physicians, according to Kung. It will be used to supplement care at Dorn for the Veterans.

The program is part of a $15 million investment to partner with PHILIPs Healthcare to provide Tele-ICU units at VA Hospitals at sites across the country.

The program will enhance patient safety and help to reduce days of care ultimately providing better access.

Dorn VA takes Cardiology Care to Rural Veteran

New Mobile Medical Unit addresses need of access to care and improves quality of life

By Chris Conklin, Public Affairs Specialist

Army Veteran Billy Joe Paradise was a little uncertain as he walked up the stairs to his cardiology appointment at the Greenville VA Clinic. According to Paradise he was not sure what he was going to be in store for at this appointment at the newest VA specialty clinic. This clinic was different than anything he had seen before. He was confident with the staff and clinicians he would see, but what was a little perplexing was that this particular clinic was stationed more than 100 yards from the clinic in the parking lot and had wheels.

The Wm. Jennings Bryan Dorn VA Medical Center unveiled its new Cardiology and Vascular Mobile Medical Unit (MMU) October 6. The unit is the first of its kind in the nation for the VA and will travel to rural parts of the Upstate Region to provide specialized cardiology and vascular care to Veterans.

The MMU was the idea of Yvette Twum-Danso, Cardiology Clinical Nurse at the Dorn VA. Twum-Danso saw a need for Veterans in the rural Upstate areas where Veterans would have to drive up to hundreds of miles to attend appointments for cardiology and vascular care. She began the process of brainstorming how to ease the burden for those Veterans and knew there was a better way. A way that would open up access to care and positively impact quality of life for Veterans traveling from rural areas of South Carolina.

“We have many Veterans in the outlying areas in need of this type of care,” said Twum-Danso. “As a cardiology team, we looked at every option; nothing was really off the table. Our goal was to be able to continue the quality care we provide at our main facility in Columbia with easier access. We understood the burden travel to the Veterans in rural areas and also understood that it is not ideal in regards to their health for these patients to have to travel that far—not to mention quality of life,” she said.

What Twum-Danso found was the opportunity for a grant through the VA’s office of Rural Health to purchase and equip the MMU, bringing care to Veterans instead of those in the Upstate Region having to make the lengthy drive to Columbia for care. The outcome of the grant is the MMU with the capability for heart and vascular testing including EKG, echocardiography, and peripheral vascular imaging. It is staffed by trained cardiovascular providers of the Dorn VA Medical Center. This unit will provide care in six federally-designated rural countries near the Orangeburg Community-Based Outpatient Clinic and the upstate Greenville, Spartanburg and Anderson areas.

Veterans who used the MMU for their appointments in the first week of its operation were overwhelmingly pleased by it, including Paradise who had his appointment the second day the MMU was put into service.

“I really did not know what to think of it at first, but I did know it was saving me a trip to Columbia,” said Paradise.

Paradise and his wife in the past have had to drive more than 300 miles round trip from Seneca, S.C. to Columbia for cardiology appointments at the Dorn VA Medical Center. For many appointments the couple would have to leave before 5 a.m. to be on time.

“Coming to my appointment (on the MMU) has cut my drive by more than half. This is a benefit to me, especially when I have an appointment at 8 a.m.,” said Paradise.

The goal of the MMU program is to serve Veterans in rural areas of South Carolina by bringing cardiovascular evaluation and therapy to the patient. Photo/Ken Holt

Paradise said the Dorn VA’s investment in the MMU is telling of its commitment to give Veterans better services and easier access to care.

“It’s definitely a step in the right directions. I think the VA can use more of these. This will come in handy for all kinds of tests and care that Veterans need,” said Paradise. “Things like tests that don’t take a lot of time, this is great you don’t have to drive all the way to Columbia,” he said.

The VA staff members who operate the MMU say Paradise’s reaction to the unit was very similar to all of the Veterans who had received their care in the previous day.

Stephen Coffey is the MMU’s Nurse Practitioner providing care for Veterans. Coffey said the response has ranged from curiosity of Veterans just stopping in to see the unit to absolute disbelief of the capabilities of it.

“All the Veterans we have seen have been happy with the unit, not only because of the reduced travel time for appointments, but because of the ability to address virtually all their needs,” he said.

Coffey said this platform for Veteran care has the ability to extend the services well beyond the confines of the Dorn VA. And as he has seen in the MMU’s short time in service, Veterans will only continue to see its value in regards to access and quality of life.

Veterans can visit their Primary Care Clinic to get their flu shot, including their outpatient clinics during scheduled appointments or on a walk-in basis, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. – 4 p.m.

Flu shots are also available at Dorn's Mental Health Clinics on a walk-in basis on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. – 1 p.m. Specialty clinics are providing flu vaccines during regularly scheduled appointments.

If a Veteran has not applied for VA health care, visit www.va.gov/healthbenefits/enroll. For more information on the flu and benefits of immunization visit <http://www.publichealth.va.gov/flu/or> call the flu hotline at 803-695-6701.

According to the Center for Disease Control, flu is a respiratory illness that spreads easily from person to person and getting a flu vaccination is the best protection against the flu. Flu season usually begins in the fall and can continue through late spring. The flu causes more than 225,000 hospitalizations and about 36,000 deaths annually.

Veterans Access, Choice and Accountability Act

On August 7, 2014, President Obama signed into law the Veterans Access, Choice and Accountability Act of 2014 (Public Law 113-146) ("Choice Act").

Technical revisions to the Choice Act were made on September 26, 2014, when the President signed into law the Department of Veterans Affairs Expiring Authorities Act of 2014 (Public Law 113-175).

VA's goal continues to be to provide timely, high-quality healthcare for Veterans. Veterans and VA employees nationwide understand the need for reform, and VA is committed to putting these reforms into place.

As this process continues to move forward, VA will work with other Departments, Congress, Veterans Service Organizations, and other stakeholders to ensure that provisions are implemented as quickly and efficiently as possible.

Caregiver Support Conference provides support and resources for those providing in-home care for Veterans and Servicemembers

The Wm. Jennings Bryan Dorn VA Medical Center (VAMC) will host its 5th Annual Caregiver Conference, entitled "Caregiving: Maintaining Hope, Courage, and Strength" on November 4 in honor of National Caregiver Month.

"We are excited to host another wonderful event for the caregivers of our Veterans," said Dorn VAMC Caregiver Support Coordinator Cristy Roberson.

Hosted by the Caregiver Support Program for caregivers of Veterans and servicemembers, the conference will be held at Fort Jackson's Solomon Center from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Program highlights include information from VA services and community organizations, presentations by a variety of speakers, and activities on art therapy, dementia, yoga, and line dancing. The event is free and lunch will be provided to registered guests. Registration ends October 30.

"We recognize the significant sacrifices of family caregivers who are a valuable resource providing physical, emotional, and other support to wounded, ill, and injured Veterans," said Roberson. "It is through caregivers like those attending the program that it is possible for our Veterans to remain in their homes rather than requiring institutional care."

The Dorn VAMC Caregiver Support Program also offers a monthly Caregiver Support Group and many services that assist caregivers in their role.

To register for the conference or for more information on the Dorn VAMC Caregiver Support Program, contact Cristy Roberson at (803) 776-4000 extension 7180.

By Kevin Lee McIver, Public Affairs Officer

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) announced yesterday that Wm. Jennings Bryan Dorn VA Medical Center employee Leland Woerner is the national leader in this year’s VA Hall of Fame for the largest individual donation to the VA Feds Feed Families program.

“VA would like to thank Leland Woerner for donating 4,409 pounds of food during the 2014 Feds Feed Families Food Drive, making him the highest donating employee this year at VA,” remarked Nicholas Behr, of the VA Worklife Benefits Office in Washington, D.C.

Incredibly, Woerner donated more than one percent of VA's total donation according to Behr who added, "This is the second year that he has been in Feds Feed Families Hall of Fame, an honor reserved for those who donate 250 pounds of food or more."

For the humble Woerner, a Lead Supply Technician with Dorn VA Medical Center's Shipping & Receiving Section in the Logistic Service Line, the program provides an opportunity to help the community.

"There are a lot of homeless people, people in need, just in our local communities that rely on places like Harvest Hope Food Bank to provide nutritional items and food," said Woerner. "The Feds Feed Families program is a way of showing how much we care about our community and the people who are less fortunate than we are."

Chief of Logistics Jeff Soots noted that Woerner is an Army Veteran who retired after 21 years of military service and has worked at VA for 14 years. "He began working at the Dorn VA Medical Center in the Health Information Management Record Section in 2000 and then moved to the Logistic Service in 2005," said Soots. "He honorably served his nation as a soldier and he continues to honorably serve our Veterans today, providing World-Class Logistics support to the entire VAMC and community."

Dorn VA Medical Center 2014 Feds Feed Families Coordinator and Human Resources Specialist Tracy Glaz highlighted that Woerner's donation tremendously helped this year's contributions. "We nearly doubled our contribution from last year with donations totaling 8,403 pounds," said Glaz. "It's indeed an honor to work with VA employees like Leland Woerner who not only are passionate about caring for Veterans but others in the community."

Leland Woerner is a true example of a VA employee caring for others and his motivation is pure. "I have been asked by quite a few people why did I do what I did," he said. "My response to them was it was the right thing to do."
